

The Integration Processes Underlying Visual Confidence Judgements

Speaker: Dr. Alan L. F. Lee

Associate Professor

Department of Applied Psychology, Lingnan University

BIOGRAPHY

Alan Lee is a vision scientist by training. He is interested in how different levels of information processing in perception and cognition interact to generate conscious experiences. His research combines psychophysical and computational methods and covers low-level perception such as motion perception to high-level cognition such as metacognition and learning. Before joining Lingnan University in 2016, he was an assistant professor at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore. He completed his postdoctoral training at Ecole Normale Supérieure in Paris after obtaining his PhD at UCLA. He majored in cognitive science during his undergraduate studies at the University of Hong Kong.
